AUSTRALIAN WINES.

A CONSIDERABLE business has been done this last month, a steady increase taking place in the consumption. An interesting and important trial of Australian Claret took place at Scott's Hotel, where a company of experts and others met for the purpose of comparing them with the best French Claret. The Wines were those usually sold at the hotel, and after carefully comparing them it was found that over TWO TO ONE WERE IN FAVOUR OF THE AUSTRALIAN WINE, which is sold at one-third of the price of the French Wine. We should mention that the judges did not know until after the trial which was Australian and which French, though the latter was the best that could be had and the Australian Caldwell & Co.'s No. 1 Claret.—The Australasian Trade Review, April 12, 1882.

The above excellent Wine is on sale at the godowns of the Undersigned.

CHRONOGRAPH WATCHES,
OF A NEW AND IMPROVED SYSTEM.

WE have just received a consignment of NEW RACE OR CHRONOGRAPH WATCHES which for durability, accuracy, precision, and convenience leave nothing to be desired.

The Chronograph hand is in front of the watch over the hour and minute hands. The cases are extra strong, with a solid cover on the back and a glass inside to protect the work.

The general objections to the Chronographs with second hand and glass on the back were that those glasses often broke, and each time necessitated a cleaning; that the glasses did not thoroughly protect the works from dust; and that to move the regulator it almost required the help of a watchmaker.

All these serious drawbacks of an otherwise good watch have been avoided in the construction of our new and improved Chronograph watches.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE

WE have no change whatever to report in the price of the leading securities on the London Stock Exchange. Money remains unaltered, good three and four months' bills being discountable in Lombard-street at ½ under the Bank rate. A payment of about £100,000 into the Bank of England is advised.

In the General Produce markets, Rapeseed is reported to be steady; Linseed and Wheat unchanged. The Manchester market is quiet.

The Liverpool Cotton Market yesterday closed firm, with Surats freely offered; arrivals quiet. Sales 10,000 bales, of which 600 bales Surats. Prices are unaltered. In New York, Middling-Uplands on the spot are unaltered, but "futures" have receded eight points. The figures to date are given below:—

MONEY is easier in Calcutta, and we learn by telegram that the Bank of Bengal's rates have just been reduced one per cent.

EXCHANGE.—Telegrams received this morning advise an advance in Bar Silver to 50 7-16d. per oz., and there are few sellers at the price. At the biddings for Government Bills on India, twenty lakhs of telegraphic transfers were taken up on Calcutta, and twelve-and-a-half lakhs on Bombay at 1s. 7 15-32d.—thus showing an increased demand for remittance to the East. After the despatch of Reuter's message we hear that one lakh was placed at the increased rate of 1s. 7¼d., which has imparted a firm tone to the market to-day. The next biddings are to be for twenty-five lakhs, but ordinary transfer is meant, for the Indian Council so far have not been restricted in their allotments of telegraphic remittances. The upward tendency reported yesterday continues, and ready demand bills can be had at 1s. 7¼d., while for October and November delivery there are sellers at 1s. 7 17-32d. Three months' credits opened at 1s. 7 25-32d., but in the afternoon 1s. 7 13-16d. became the quotation. A transaction for delivery during the months of September, October, November, December, and January, for so much per month at the above rate, is reported. From Calcutta we learn that telegraphic transfer has advanced to 1s. 7 7-16d., and six months' credits to 1s. 7 15-16d. to 1s. 8d.

GOVERNMENT PAPER unchanged: 4 per cents., Rs. 99 1-16; 4½ per cent., Rs. 103⅝.

SHARES.—Colaba Land and Mill shares are in demand at the advanced rate of Rs. 815. Port Cannings, on the other hand, have declined to Rs. 362½. Some Berar Press shares were sold at Rs. 605 per share. Mill shares are buoyant, and rates in many cases are higher. RAPESEED, on the contrary, is firmer, owing to the hardening tendency at home. Guzerat has advanced to Rs. 7-7 to Rs. 7-8 per cwt.; Cawnpore, Rs. 6-15 to Rs. 7.

WHEAT remains quiet. The present inquiry is confined to Yellow and Luskari sorts, while Pessie and Catha descriptions are temporarily neglected, and prices in consequence close in favour of buyers. DEFECTIVE OR FAILING SIGHT.

THE sense of sight is so valuable that the importance of perfect and carefully adjusted spectacles can scarcely be overrated; although the wearing of single eye-glasses should be strictly avoided, we have the highest medical authority, confirmed by daily experience, that imperfect glasses, together with the haphazard plan of selection generally employed, are frequent causes of irremediable injury to the sight; and as no present economy can compensate for such a loss, it behoves all to be cautious how they are tempted to use the common pebble or glass spectacles now so generally sold.

For the guidance of those who are using pebble spectacles, it may be stated that when the pebbles are cut against the grain, and not polished on the principle which has been universally declared the most appropriate, based on scientific research, they are injurious to the sight.

Unadvisable as the unnecessary wearing of spectacles undoubtedly is, the common notion that their use should be postponed to the utmost is proved beyond dispute to be a grave mistake.

Being in possession of all the optical instruments taken over by us from Dr. A. Menist, we are not only in a position to suit the eye sight to perfection, but to supply different accommodations for each eye which so frequently are needed.

The Bombay Gazette

FRIDAY, JULY 27, 1883.

WE expressed, in our article of the 16th instant, the opinion that the communal village system might well be utilized for the purposes of local self-government, if at any time it were thought desirable to extend this principle to the revenue administration of the country. Of course, it is quite plain that village self-government is practically inconsistent with the present system of direct State management, which tends to dissolve the communal element, and has in fact changed fundamentally the condition under which the agriculture and government of the country are conducted. The village system represents the traditional bundle of sticks, and it is a question whether under a ryotwari system individual cultivators are strong enough to stand alone. It is quite clear that the joint system affords, at least in theory, an admirable machinery for mutual protection and support; and the fact that the joint system is at once indigenous and of great antiquity raises, at any rate, a strong presumption in its favour. Under both the Moguls and the Mahrattas the village system afforded the sole guarantee for the realization of the State dues, and for elementary civil and criminal justice. In Mountstuart Elphinstone's well-known Report on the territories conquered from the Peshwa, he tells us: "It is universally believed in the Mahratta country that the Daishmooks, Daishpandees, etc., were all officers appointed by some former government; and it seems probable that they were the revenue officers of the Hindoo government, that these offices being hereditary, like most others under the Hindoos, they were in possession of too much knowledge and influence to be dispossessed by the Mahomedans, who, though they appointed district officers, availed themselves of the experience of the Zemindars (the Daishmooks), and allowed them to settle with the Patails, explaining their proceedings to the more immediate officer of government. They even often farmed out the whole Pergunna to the Daishmooks, who by this means acquired so much authority in parts of the country as to be able, on the decline of the Mahomedan kingdoms in the Deccan, to maintain themselves for a time in independence. The Mahratta, or rather the Brahmin, government was led by this conduct, and by their embezzlements of the public revenue, almost to set aside the employment of the Zemindars, transacting all business directly with the Patails by means of its own officers. This change, though probably produced by the policy and avarice of the Brahmins, is considered to have been attended with beneficial effects, as delivering the people from the oppressions and exactions of the Zemindars." This passage seems clearly to show (1) that from time immemorial settlements were made with the villages collectively through their head-men, the patels; (2) that these settlements were effected latterly by the Mahratta government direct, but originally through the mediation of the Hindu dehmooks, who were to all intents and purposes in the position of zemindars. The village head-men not only satisfied the government dues, but kept order within their respective limits, and provided by means of punchayet a rough, but fairly efficient, machinery for the satisfaction of ordinary petty civil claims.

Before the rise of the Mahratta power it was very seldom that villages dealt direct with the central government. The collection of the State share of the crop was almost invariably entrusted to various kinds of middlemen, who are well-known in the revenue records of Government as zemindars, talukdars, izzardars, mauotidars, and the like. It is a fact of some significance that direct management of the land by the State is now, and always has been, opposed to all native tradition and experience. Holkar, who is one of the shrewdest and most businesslike of Indian princes, to this day farms his State dues. In Scindia's territory, where Sir Dinkar Rao's settlement is still in force, the Durbar, to save itself the trouble and the risk, generally farms out the revenue to bunyas, who are paid five per cent. on the total revenue of the village. In Hyderabad a revised survey and settlement on the British model is now being introduced, but up to the present time the prevailing custom has been to collect the government dues almost entirely through the agency of the village head-men, who received for their service a fixed percentage. In Baroda and most of the chief States of Western India, up to a recent period, the practice of farming the State dues has very extensively prevailed. There is much that may be said for and against the practice of farming the State dues. It is quite true that the practice is now very generally condemned, chiefly on account of the abuses which have been almost invariably connected with it; but it is questionable whether these abuses have not been caused more by the neglect and indifference of the central government than by any evil inherent in the system itself. No doubt the existence of the farming system may to some extent be accounted for by the weakness and general want of organisation in most native administrations; but this explanation is not, we think, adequate to account for the existence of a practice which has prevailed in all parts of India, under Hindus and Mussulmans alike, for several centuries. It seems, in fact, to have been universally recognized by all native governments that it was at once both convenient and wise to collect the State dues through the agency of some kind of middleman or another. The convenience to the State of being saved the whole trouble and risk of management is obvious enough. On the other hand, by habitually employing middlemen an extensive and profitable field for the investment of private capital and the employment of private industry was created. It may, in fact, with substantial accuracy be said that under the old native system the collection of the government dues by middlemen was itself one of the most important industries in the country. It was an industry that was supported, either directly or indirectly, by most of the local capitalists, and enlisted the services of many of the ablest natives of the country. The desais, deshmuks, and native capitalists of a former generation bore a very high character for power of management and general administrative ability. This great and important industry has of course vanished with the introduction of the modern revenue survey and settlement system; and from one point of view it is difficult to exaggerate the loss which the country has sustained by practically closing the most important field in India for private capital and private industry.

All observers unite in deploring the absence of industrial enterprise, the limited field for the investment of private capital, and the ever-increasing crowd of applicants for Government service. The Famine Commissioners at once put their finger upon this weak spot in the social condition of the country; but it does not seem to have occurred to any of the able officials consulted that the result is perhaps mainly due to the present revenue policy of the Government and the introduction of direct state management. But the village system, though crushed and weakened by the administrative changes introduced by the British Government, is still full of latent vitality. It would undoubtedly be resorted to to-morrow if the British left the country; and can still be utilised by Government to any extent that State policy may dictate. It may, however, at once be admitted that the villages could not now stand alone without financial assistance. They must be supported by native capitalists as in the old days, and if so assisted and fairly treated by Government, the communal village system might, no doubt, to a great extent be restored. We have heard a good deal lately about the expediency of establishing agricultural banks; and it may be pointed out that the establishment of such banks would provide precisely the kind of financial assistance of which the villages are now much in need. Some native banking organisation on a comparatively large scale is required to enable the village communities to tide over the risks and difficulties of ordinary seasons, to settle the existing dead load of debt, to make the necessary advances, and to provide more elasticity and convenience in the mode of realizing the State dues. It is, no doubt, within the power of practical statesmanship to devise a satisfactory scheme for utilising such banks, but it is doubtful, we think, whether they can be extensively developed, or will afford sufficient profit if worked in connection with the present revenue and survey system. There are many native bankers and capitalists of experience who would doubtless be willing to co-operate with Government in any scheme having for its object the administration by native agency of the Government dues within any given area. The bank would, we will suppose, guarantee to Government the full amount of their present dues, and would in return receive power to collect from the villages through their recognized head-men. Such a scheme, no doubt, involves certain obvious risks and dangers, but on the other hand it would seem to entail some very important advantages. Might not an experiment be made with advantage in some selected district? If it failed, no great harm would be done. If it succeeded, the experience gained would be invaluable. Surely India is large enough, the conditions various enough, to admit of more than one system of revenue management. So long as it is the fashion to pin our faith to one administrative scheme or another, to the exclusion of all others, we are not unlikely to go hopelessly astray. Political wisdom does not come by inspiration, and in many administrative matters we have still very much to learn.

THE Hindoo Patriot, commenting upon a statement made by Baboo Protapchunder Mozoomdar at Birmingham, that fifty per cent. of the educated natives of India die through over-indulgence in intoxicants, says :—"It cannot be said that drinking was unknown among the natives of India until the advent of the British, but it cannot be denied that it has immensely increased under British rule. The liquor-shop has unfortunately become the sign-post of British civilization in the East. At the same time it is gross exaggeration to say that fifty per cent. of the educated natives of India die from overindulgence in drink."

Apropos of the questions dealt with in the letter of "Behar," which we publish to-day, we notice that the correspondent of a home paper writes :—"The reply given to Mr. Gibson's question by the Indian Under-Secretary shows that the Government, as at present advised, intend to ignore the complaints of the medical officers in the Indian Medical Service. It is as well that this should be known to students in your schools who propose competing for the places thrown open to competition next August. They will now know that entering the service they are agreeing to accept the lowest scale of pay for the five years of their life in that uninviting climate of any commissioned officer, native or European, in the Indian Army ; that they are liable to be employed on active service while drawing 'unemployed pay,' and that their interests will be subordinated in every way to those of the men in the Army Medical Department, who are only passing sojourners in the country. In short, if they take a copy of the enviciously-framed conditions upon which they are invited to join the service, and imagine every one of them that is advantageous violated, they will be able to form an idea of the kind of treatment they may expect. But Mr. Cross has not heard of the grievances of the service yet, and is not likely to, so long as he maintains his present attitude."

"A. P. W." has written a series of letters to the Allahabad paper on the subject of "The Conflict of Caste," with a view to showing that the various races which inhabit this country never can become really united because of their caste prejudices and race jealousies. In his concluding letter, the correspondent writes :—

A recent work entitled Gujrat and the Gujratis (1882, W. Allen and Co.), by Behramji Malabari, Editor of the Indian Spectator, at Bombay, furnishes at this juncture excellent instances of race and caste feeling. It is valuable testimony from an educated native gentleman, and in his own person, of the disunion of native society. His caste criticisms are incisive, and he does not spare native officials, honorary or otherwise, too. One instance will suffice for illustration. Baboo Satyundra Nath Tagore, a Bengali gentleman in the Bombay Civil Service, occupies the high position of District Judge. Malabari remarks that Mr. Tagore is more fit for the pulpit than the bench," and again, "more fit to be an ascetic." Reducing the expressions here to their native forms, the meaning, neither more nor less, is that Mr. Tagore would look better handling a palm of leaves and seated, smeared with ashes, by a tomb under a peepul or banyan tree, than dispensing justice in a cutcherry. Comment is unnecessary. In reference to this feature in Malabari's work, Major Eastwick, who writes the preface, observes that the men selected for high office by Government are precisely not always acceptable to their countrymen ; and that Government unconsciously fuses the multi-caste communities of India, as most people constantly do. With all his presumed Indian experience, Major Eastwick has missed the moral in Malabari's criticisms.

The moral which "A. P. W." draws from this and other sources is "that no native in authority, whatever his position, can possibly prove acceptable to any but co-religionists or castemen." Rather a wide deduction from a phrase which, if it meant anything particular, probably meant that Mr. Malabari did not like Mr. Tagore.

PRINCE ALBERT VICTOR OF WALES will go into residence at Trinity College, Cambridge, at the commencement of the October term. He will occupy a suite of rooms in the part of the college known as "The Cloisters," close by the rooms which are said to have been occupied by Lord Byron.

Apropos of the resignation of M. Tissot of his post of French Ambassador in London, of which we have since been informed by Reuter, we see the London papers of June 30 state :—"The rumour that M. Tissot contemplates resigning his post, was contradicted in Paris yesterday evening. M. Tissot is certainly in ill-health just now, but he hopes to be able to resume his duties at the expiration of his six weeks' leave, that is to say, in the month of August."

A PARIS correspondent of a London paper hears on the best authority that the disease from which the Comte de Chambord is suffering is inflammation of the intestine—the same malady which proved fatal to Gambetta.

LORD WOLSELEY, responding to the toast of his health at a banquet given in his honour at the Mansion House, Dublin, on June 30, repudiated the calumnies which have been made anti-Irish in his feelings. He declined most emphatically to be disassociated in any way with the land of his birth. But with the Ireland of politics or religious differences he had no concern. He did not, however, believe in the cry, "Ireland for the Irish." The man who would restrict Irishmen to Ireland was no true patriot. Irishmen wanted a wider field for their energies and enterprise—the whole British Empire—and he would shed the last drop of his blood sooner than see the bond which united Ireland with England for so many centuries weakened in any way. The Irish required to be ruled firmly but justly, with a genial touch. Having paid a tribute to the bravery and discipline of Irish soldiers, whom he said he had found like clay in the hands of a moulder, he hoped in the next campaign to see an Irish brigade, commanded by an Irish brigadier. He regarded Lord Spencer's presence as a proof of his sympathy with the Irish.

ON July 2 the Speaker's attention was privately drawn to a speech alleged to have been delivered at Manchester on Saturday, June 30, by Mr. Biggar, to the effect that the leading characteristic of the present Government was falsehood, and that Mr. Trevelyan, the Chief Secretary for Ireland, was no better than his predecessor, as "the other evening he lied with respect to the paupers who were shipped across the Atlantic." An hon. member on the Ministerial side had intended to bring this language before the House as constituting a breach of privilege, but, acting on the advice of the authorities, he abandoned the idea.

A NEW Socialist journal, edited by the Russian agitator Lawroff, is about to appear at Geneva. It will be of a more conciliatory character than those hitherto published, acting as a sort of mediator between the Terrorists and Socialists.

IT appears from the official abstract lately issued that the gross revenue of the United Kingdom for the year ended June 30 was £89,824,438, and for the quarter ending on the same date £20,796,738. The net increase during the twelve months amounted to £3,784,368, the excise alone showing a decline to the extent of £295,000 On the quarter there is a net increase of £819,982, the excise exhibiting an improvement of £30,000, while stamps indicate a falling-off of £10,000, and miscellaneous of £134,747. The increase on property and income-tax during the three months is set down at £760,000.

THE Academy says that Mr. A. K. Connell is about to publish a small work, under the title of "The Economic Revolution in India." It consists of an examination of the financial and economic results of the Public Works policy pursued by the Indian Government during the last thirty years ; and it is, to some extent, a reply to Sir John Strachey's volume, "Finances and Public Works in India."

A CLOCK made of paper is the latest acquisition to the field of mechanical ingenuity.

A CURIOUS proof of the prevalence of the English language throughout the globe is afforded by a statement in Hubbard's "Newspaper and Bank Directory of the World," that out of 34,274 newspapers and periodicals which were published in 1880, no fewer than 16,500 were printed in our own tongue. Nearly half the remainder were in German, a quarter in French, and the greater bulk of the rest in Spanish. Daily papers numbered 4,020, and the gross circulation of the whole periodical press is estimated at 10,592,000,000.

THE Pope, it may not be generally known, is a writer, and not only a writer but a poet. The St. James's Gazette says :—He has had, however, the good taste to confine his poetic effusions to the Latin language. We have looked through the volume of verses just published, and we can say with absolute certainty than any average Eton boy could give points to His Holiness in the matter of Latin verses. But of course as the work of a Pope it will have a certain circulation ; and it is at least as well worth perusing as the little volumes which formed the stock of the Milan and Florence booksellers in the last century.

ONE of the most ludicrous clauses of the Corrupt Practices Act, the St. James's Gazette remarks, is that which is to limit the "personal expenses" of candidates at elections. What, it may well be asked, do personal expenses consist of ? If a candidate, in order to produce a good impression on the free and independent voters (and King Demos, like other monarchs, likes his courtiers to be well-favoured), purchases himself a new suit of clothes, will the amount of his tailor's bill be deducted from the £100 allowed him ? Then, again, "personal expenses" will differ with every candidate's personal habits. A non-smoking and total abstinence candidate might find that £100 would go further than with one by whom champagne and partagas were habitually consumed. A gentleman of the chivalrous and gallant temper of the member for Cavan might find it impossible to live during an election without giving "a necklace or other present" to a lady ; and is this, said Mr. Biggar, with emotion, to be considered among the illegitimate personal expenses ? The bitterest opponents of the Attorney-General's Bill (supposing that bitterness and not boredom happened to be any one's feeling about it) could hardly have wished it worse than that it should be brought to a reductio ad absurdum by Mr. Biggar.

MAJORS WILLIAM SCOTT, W. S. Seton, and W. F. Sandwith, of the Bombay Staff Corps, are promoted to Lieut.-Col. on completion of twenty-six years' service.

LIEUT. W. WRIGHT, G. I. P. Railway Volunteers, is promoted to Captain.

PRIVILEGE leave of absence from 26th July to 23rd September is granted to Lieutenant A. A. Lane, 28th P. N. I., Allahabad.

FORTY-ONE batteries of artillery and regiments have announced their intention of taking part at the Soldiers' Industrial Exhibition to be held at Lucknow in November.

THE appointment of Colonel Aylmer S. Cameron, V.C., of the King's Own Borderers, the command of the 2nd Battalion of which he held, to the Headquarter's Staff at the Horse Guards, vice Colonel East, has given, or will give, an up-country paper notes, most unexpected promotion to Lieutenant-Colonel Ramsay and Major Carwithen, both of the 1st Battalion in this country, the former obtaining command of the Battalion at home, and the latter his Lieutenant-Colonelcy in the Battalion at Umballa. Both these officers entered the service in 1857 within four months of each other, and have served in the Borderers the whole time. Colonel Cameron was employed in India on the Garrison Instructor Staff from 1871 (September) till July, 1876, during six months of which he officiated as Superintendent, and was a Chief Instructor for the last two years. Lieutenant-Colonel Ramsay and Major Carwithen served with the Peshawur Valley Field Force in 1878-79. The command of the 1st Battalion, King's Own Borderers, on the 21st June year after next, when Colonel Harvey will have completed his five years in command, will now fall to Lieutenant-Colonel G. E. Hope, who entered the service in 1854, three years before Lieutenant-Colonel Ramsay, his promotion being less rapid owing to his having exchanged with the King's Own Borderers for the 7th Fusiliers in 1864 ; he, however, commenced his career in the 10th Foot. Although of longer service, still he is a year and a half younger than Colonel Ramsay, who will be 48 next December.

AN UNWARY SENTINEL.—Driver Alexander Reid of the Q. Battery, 1st Brigade Royal Artillery, stationed at Saint Thomas' Mount, was arraigned before a General Court-Martial, which assembled at that station on the 17th instant. It is alleged, on the 4th, about 11 p.m., Lieutenant H. Guise, R.A., who was brigade orderly officer, was visiting the several guards, and on approaching the Royal Artillery horse lines, on where a European sentinel is usually stationed, he was not challenged. The sentry was found to be asleep. The Court, which was presided over by Major and Brevet Lieutenant-Colonel C. Hogg, R.A., found the prisoner guilty of "sleeping on his post as sentinel," and sentenced him to be imprisoned with hard labour for eighty-four days, and to forfeit deferred pay for two years. Colonel T. S. Hawks, Commandant, 26th Regiment Madras Native Infantry, in temporary command of the District, has confirmed the Court's finding and sentence.—Madras Mail.

RESTORATION OF REGIMENTAL COLOURS.

A MEETING of officers of the 1st Battalion of the 38th (1st Staffordshire) Regiment was held on July 2 in the theatre of the Royal United Service Institution, with the object of considering the placing of two old sets of colours in Lichfield Cathedral, with a memorial of the officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of the 38th Regiment and 1st Battalion South Staffordshire Regiment who were killed in action, or have died of wounds or from other causes on active service, during the Crimean, the Indian Mutiny, and the recent Egyptian campaigns. The following were present :—Major C. Cockayne-Frith, Sir Robert Sinclair, Bart., Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Gustavus Hume, Colonel the Hon. C. J. Addington, Lieutenant-Colonel H. P. Vance, Colonel C. A. S. Dickins, Colonel W. K. Ellis, C.B., Lieutenant-Colonel P. H. Eyre, Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Norman Pringle, Bart., Captain J. Ewart, Captain M. Thackeray, Lieutenant E. Lyall, Piper Wolfenden, Lieutenants J. N. Cobb and ——. Major Cockayne-Frith, as the oldest officer of the 38th present, was voted to the chair. The following resolution, on the motion of Sir G. Hume, seconded by Colonel Dickins, was carried :—"That a portrait be painted of the Dean and Chapter, a memorial be placed in the Lichfield Cathedral, together with the old colours restored by the Earl of Dartmouth, and those at present in the regimental museum (which are to be replaced), to record the services of the 38th, or 1st Staffordshire, Regiment." Lieutenant-Colonel Eyre, now in command, explained that for a considerable number of the years the regiment served through the Peninsula campaign, could not be traced until their recent restoration by the Earl of Dartmouth, into whose possession they had passed with property purchased from the family of Colonel Sir Henry Piggott, a former Commander of the regiment. They were found wrapped in canvas. The regiment was raised at Lichfield in 1702, and eighty years later was named the 1st Staffordshire. During its existence of 181 years, it has been present in foreign service. Colonel Addington proposed, and Colonel Ellis seconded, the nomination of a committee to carry out the wishes of the meeting, and it was also agreed to invite subscriptions from the officers with that view. Votes of thanks to Lord Dartmouth, the Committee of the Royal United Service Institution, Lieutenant-Colonel Eyre, and to the chairman concluded the proceedings.

HIGH COURT.—JULY 26.

(Before the Hon'ble Mr. Justice LATHAM.)

BREACH OF PROMISE OF MARRIAGE.

ROSE DE SOUZA vs. SERVILO JOSEPH PAIS.

HIS LORDSHIP delivered judgment to-day in this case, the facts of which were reported by us yesterday. The suit was brought to recover Rs. 5,000 damages by reason of the defendant's breach of promise to marry the plaintiff. The main point in the case was whether the promise to marry was conditional on the defendant's obtaining his mother's consent. Having admitted the promise, the burden of proving the condition rested on the defendant. The formal promise or notification to the other members of the plaintiff's family did not take place until 1880, although the plaintiff said the promise was made two years earlier. A definite promise seemed to have been made on the defendant's leaving for Afghanistan. The defendant produced no writing to show that there was any condition made by him, although the letters before the court showed that there was an intention that he should communicate the engagement to his mother and ask her consent to the marriage, which was only natural, and what a son ought to do. There was no evidence, however, of a positive condition being attached to the proposed marriage. The defendant was old enough to act for himself, and the probabilities of a condition like that mentioned were rather against him. He said he had destroyed the letter from his mother in which she refused her consent. If such a letter existed, he was destroying the defendant must suffer for his own folly. The next question was, what damages should be awarded ? This was scarcely a case in which the attachment between the parties appeared to have been of a romantic description. None of the defendant's letters produced in court was of the character of letters often produced in courts of justice in cases of this kind. There was hardly a single endearment or expression in them. They were, on the whole, dry letters, containing allusions to medical matters, &c. There appeared to be no great affection between the parties ; and had not defendant admitted the promise in his written statement, it would have been extremely difficult to prove it by his letters. The plaintiff was 27 years of age, and was quite capable of looking after herself. Her family looked at the matter as rather a dry business, until it was seen that the defendant wanted to break away from his promise. He was now drawing Rs. 75 a month, in addition to something, perhaps, from private practice, and was liberal to his family, to a sister, brother, and a widowed sister. Taking all the circumstances of the case into consideration, the loss suffered by the plaintiff could not be very great. Estimating the loss in money was very difficult in the case, and was often a matter of speculation. His lordship awarded Rs. 800 as damages, including the Rs. 500 already deposited in court, and costs,—adding that this was not a case in which pressure should be put upon the defendant for the costs of the suit, and that he should be given time. His lordship thought that the suit might have been brought in the Small Causes Court ; but the Legislature had laid down that that court was not competent to try cases involving breaches of promise of marriage. His lordship did not know why this should be so, as no difficult questions of law arose generally in such cases ; and the Small Causes Court might very well deal with cases in which the damages claimed were small in amount.

Mr. Lang, on behalf of the plaintiff, asked what time his lordship thought should be given the defendant for payment of the money.

The judge said the defendant's means were small, and to press him might cost him his employment. His lordship thought that execution might be stayed for a year.

Mr. Lang said that was rather a long time ; the costs would not be very heavy ; and they would give him six months.

The proposal was agreed to, and the parties then withdrew.

(Before the Hon'ble Mr. Justice BIRDWOOD.)

APPOINTMENT OF NEW TRUSTEES.

NOORMAHOMED HAJEE ESSA AND OTHERS vs. HALE MABAI AND ANOTHER.

MR. INVERARITY and Mr. Jardine, instructed by Messrs. Payne and Gilbert, appeared for the plaintiffs ; and the Hon'ble Mr. Marriott, Mr. Farran, and Mr. Lang, instructed by Messrs. Macfarlane and Edgelow, for the defendants.

The facts of the case, as stated in the plaint, are briefly these. One Hajee Adum Hajee Abubakir died in Bombay in 1848, leaving behind him two widows, a son, three daughters, and other relations, some of whom had died subsequently. In 1852 one of the widows and the son of the deceased, Hajee Abubakir, obtained letters of administration to the estate. One of the relations filed a suit in the High Court for a partition of the property ; but the suit was afterwards compromised on the terms contained in an agreement dated 17th June, 1865. For the purpose of carrying the agreement into effect an indenture, dated 24th October, 1863, was executed between the parties ; and by it a house situated in Memon Wada was conveyed to the widows of Hajee Abubakir. Both the widows died subsequently. The plaintiffs submitted that the defendants, or one of them, were now the trustees of the premises under the indenture abovementioned. The plaintiffs were desirous that the trusts should be carried out, and that new trustees should be appointed in place of the defendants, who had appropriated all the rents of the premises to their own use, and were about to sell the premises. The first defendant had already agreed to sell an undivided half of it for Rs. 13,750.

The written statement of the defendants denied the material allegations of the plaint, and they alleged that they were absolutely entitled to the premises in question.

The case is still at hearing.

HINDOO WIDOW RE-MARRIAGE.—We understand that a Hindoo widow marriage was celebrated at Tengra, in the suburbs of Calcutta, on Saturday last. The bridegroom is Baboo Beepin Behary Mitter, of Burdwan. The bride is the grand daughter (eldest daughter's daughter) of Baboo Joykrishna Bose of Hogulkuria. Baboo Joykrishna Bose is the grandson (daughter's son) of the late Rajah Sir Radhakantha Deb Bahadoor. The bride is about twelve years of age.—Id.

PRESENTATION.—At a meeting held on Saturday last in the Bullion Office of the Mint, and in the presence of Mr. Mog-General Tennant, Master of the Mint, Mr. F. W. Peterson, Deputy Assay Master, and several Assistants of the Mint and Paper Currency Office, and friends, the native establishment of the Mint presented a farewell address to Rai Hem Chunder Dutt, Bahadoor, the retired Bullion-keeper of the office. A silver uttardan, of Dacca manufacture, a walking stick, and an umbrella (the last being the gift of the civil guard of the office) were offered to the late Bullion-keeper as tokens of remembarance.—Id.

SYSTEMATIC GOAT-STEALING BY JUVENILE OFFENDERS.—Two Mahomedan lads, apparently 12 and 10 years respectively, who stood charged in the Kalbadevi Police Court with stealing a couple of goats from the maidan, were re-arraigned on the 21st inst. on charges of theft of a couple of kids from the same place. In the first case, the complainant was a goat-keeper, who deposed that he had left his kid to graze on the maidan, and missed it when he came to take it away. This occurred on the 15th instant. The accused admitted the charge, and were ordered to be sent to the reformatory for a period of five years. In the next case, the accused were charged with the same offence in respect of another goat, under similar circumstances. They admitted this charge also, and were ordered to be sent to the reformatory for another period of five years.—Statesman.

HARBOURING A SEAMAN.—Mr. John Edward Hardy, proprietor of the Temperance Hotel in Bow Bazaar-street, and of a tailoring shop at Old Court House-corner, was charged, before Mr. Henderson, on the 21st-inst., with having harboured and concealed Chas. Bottger, a seaman on the articles of the Plantation Castle. Defendant denied the charge, and attempted to show that as assistant of his in the tailoring shop had committed the offence with the view of getting him into trouble. The evidence brought forward in support of the prosecution went to establish the fact that two men of the Plantation Castle took ill, and went to the General Hospital. On obtaining their discharge, they went to Hardy's hotel, instead of the ship, and Mr. Hardy advised them to go to the Medical College Hospital. They did so, and one of them got admitted, while the other returned to Hardy's Hotel. This other was Bottger, and Mr. Hardy then advised him to return on board, promising to bring him ashore after a while. Bottger he did not bring, but afterwards engaged a dinghy and came ashore, bringing his traps with him. Mr. Hardy received him, and assisted him in removing the traps to the hotel. Subsequently it was rumoured about that the police were on the defendant's track, and Mr. Hardy suggested that he should shave off his moustachios, and keep himself concealed somewhere in Howrah. For this purpose he introduced him into a grocery, and paid him Rs. 2 as the fare of the carriage. Bottger carried out these precautions, but for all that was arrested in Howrah. Captain James Gyllancreatz proved that the defendant had induced him to leave his ship in some thing like £8-18-3. The magistrate convicted the defendant and imposed a fine of Rs. 100.

SERIOUS RIDING ACCIDENT.—We are sorry to hear that Mr. A. Carmo, acting Sub-Collector of Cuddapah, had a rather nasty fall from his horse at Madanapilli last week. The horse seems to have come a cropper when going at full gallop. Mr. Farmer was pitched out of the saddle, and his head came in contact with a stone. He was rendered insensible for some time, and has a bad cut on the forehead. An apothecary went out to bring Mr. Farmer in from Camp to Madanapilli. We are glad to hear Mr. Carmo is progressing satisfactorily.—Madras Mail.

TAKING ADVANTAGE OF NATIVE PREJUDICES.—A native writes :—"Yesterday, just a little before dark, a small bier was carried on the shoulders of two bads, apparently of the pariah caste, and paraded all over the Kothaval Chowrady Bazaar square, the carriers stopping at each shop, and compelling the shop-keepers to throw them a copper. The contribution was largerly made, as the sight of the bier was a terror to the shop-keepers, who therefore restored to ready payment as a means of shunning the general abhorrence the bier created in the breasts of all. A passer-by, who also shared in the unpleasant feelings, suspecting that there was a body in the bier, though shrouded in the native fashion with a cloth dyed in saffron, and adorned with a profusion of flowers—all in a manner strongly indicative of the passage of a human body to the place where it was to be consigned to mother-earth, might yet be anything but a corpse, instituted enquiries, and found out, to his surprise, that the matter was, even as he suspected ; and that the pariah carriers had come by a dead monkey, and they cleverly passed off the carcase for the corpse of a young child.—Madras Mail.

MADRAS AT THE CALCUTTA EXHIBITION.—The Collector of Madura has intimated to the Central Committee that a sum of Rs. 2,400 would be required to procure a collection of art-ware, fabrics, etc., from his district, and has furnished a list of what he proposes to send, from which, no doubt, the committee will make a judicious selection. In addition to what he has proposed, the committee have called upon the Collector to furnish a priced list of carved steel work for which Madura has long been famous, and samples of which were exhibited, and greatly admired, at the late Madras Agricultural Exhibition. The Collector of the Nilgiris has reported that it will be possible to procure a collection illustrative of the cinchona industry to be included in the collection of Nilgiri special products, accepted by the Government of India ; and, as regards gold quartz, he has suggested that the Mysore collection be forwarded. But the committee have informed him that it is very important the industry should be represented, and that there need be no difficulty about the collection. It has also been pointed out that the Mysore collection of gold quartz cannot be made available for exhibition. From Chingleput the Central Committee have ordered a large and valuable collection, consisting of carved ivory and wood work, muslin, palampores, basketware, silks, etc. Tinnevelly will contribute the beautiful and silky looking Patamadai matting, as well as some superior native silk and other cloths, while samples of the works of some of the Mission institutions of the district have been already received at the Museum. Ganjam has furnished a large collection, consisting of Kimedi basketware and matting, Mandassu figures, delicately carved forward from the betel nut, Chinese carving, silk cloths from Berhampore, and arms and ornaments of the Khonds and Sourahs. A sum of money has been placed at the disposal of the Collector of Ganjam for the purchase of Kimedi and Paighat mats that can be procured, while a special grant has been sanctioned for a collection of Calicut brass-ware. Three private exhibitors have come forward from Vizagapatam to exhibit on their own account carved and inlaid fancy work, ivory, wood, and bison horn ; while from Tanjore a well-known workman has intimated his intention of sending brass-ware encrusted on the surface with mythological and fanciful patterns in gold, silver, and copper, in a style known technically as the "Repousse." Mr. Framji Pestonji Bhungara, the enterprising Parsi dealer, on the Mount Road, in fancy ware and curios, has applied for a stall in the Exhibition building and for permission to send a representative.—Madras Times.

N.-W. PROVINCES, PUNJAUB, AND OUDH.

LAHORE.—On the evening of the 21st instant there was a collision in the Lahore Railway Stationyard between an empty passenger train and a goods train while shunting. The engine was much damaged. The points-man, but an old hand and the oldest inhabitant here is unable to account for the peculiar weather the capital of the Punjab is experiencing. The rain seems to be generally abundant all over the country, but at Lahore there have been only two good showers to date (22nd July) since the commencement of the monsoon. Those who are in a position to make a choice would prefer stewing in a steamy atmosphere to being slowly baked in a hot stifling one. The health of the station is, however, very satisfactory. The tiger in the Zoological Garden, a splendid specimen of his tribe and a highly-esteemed character, is on his death-bed. The terrible heat of the exceptionally hot season has completely prostrated him, and it is very doubtful whether the veterinary and medical aid administering to him will pull him through.—Pioneer.

LOCAL SELF-GOVERNMENT IN MULTAN.—The city of Multan has for some months enjoyed the benefits of working of Local Self-Government, but strange as it may appear to the cultivators, that noble plant is growing up rather crookedly there. The members of the Municipality have from the first shown much jealousy of each other. The Hindus strongly opposed the election of a Mahomedan as President, and vice versâ, so both parties accepted the nomination to the office of a Eurasian Extra Assistant Commissioner. The happy family principle designed by Lord Ripon for all municipalities has not been adopted by the members of the Multan Municipal Committee, whose meetings have been remarkable chiefly for agreement to disagree. Affairs were brought to something like a climax the other day, when the President introduced for discussion a question regarding the re-employment of the octroi managers. Four members insisted that the question had already been decided and could not be reopened, and after lodging an excited protest, defied the authority of the Chairman, and withdrew in great dudgeon. One Mahomedan member declined to vote, as it was the holy festival of Shubrat ; while another, timorous to a degree, Christian by name, was dignified. His retirement is thus recorded in the Report signed by Mr. W. A. Harris, the Chairman :—"Syed Hamid Shah left, seeing that there was likely to be a warm debate."—Pioneer.

BURMAH.

PREVENTING THE NAVIGATION OF THE CHINDWIN RIVER :—The Rangoon correspondent of the Statesman says—"The Burmese Government is reported to have stopped the new Flotilla steamer intended to navigate the waters of the Chindwin river in Upper Burmah from entering. Doubtless the diplomacy of Mandalay will remove the objections reported to exist in the minds of the Burmese ministers to the opening up the trade of the Chindwin, but the Italian Consul, M. Andreino, who was also agent for the Flotilla Company at Mandalay, is now at Bhamo, and the Italian Embassy, and his absence may have something to do with the stoppage of the new steamer. No objection was made to the exploration of the Chindwin two years ago, and a Flotilla steamer and it was because it was then found to be feasible that the present steamer was built expressly for this river. Although in Burmese territory, the wild inhabitants bordering the Chindwin seem to owe very little allegiance to any one, and are now principally distinguished for their inveterate habit of kidnapping subjects of Upper or British Burma, for the purpose of selling them into slavery amongst more distant tribes. It would be greatly to the benefit of the Government of Upper Burmah as well as our own if these wild men could be shown that their country is accessible to steamers, and that there are plenty of means for them to do an honest and profitable trade with the towns on the Irrawaddy, if they will abandon their old hostility to men of other tribes than their own. They will make very much more money and lead more comfortable lives by honest trading in forest produce, grain, and piece-goods, than by stealing men and women, and selling or bartering them for cattle. It is therefore, in the interests of peace and civilisation, earnestly to be hoped that the stoppage of the new Chindwin steamer by the Burmese Government is only temporary, and that they will see that their best interests are served by doing all they can to encourage the opening up of their country both by steamers on its rivers, and by making roads in places where the only communication at present is by mere paths through apparently impenetrable jungles."

FRONTIER SURVEYS.

THE Surveyor General's lately published Administration Report contains the following extract from a report by Mr. McNair, whose recent journey to Chinis has made his name generally known :—

I have the honour to submit a report of my reconnaissance of the tract of independent territory lying east of the Kurran river and immediately north of Edwardesabad or Bannu. The tract in question embraces an area of 350 square miles, and through it from east to west extends the range of hills generally known as Laki Juni or Kafir Kot. This range, which consists generally of conglomerate, terminates at each end in huge excrescences of grotesque shape, which rise considerable above the level of the ridge and strike the observer's eye from every direction. The four most prominent of these excrescences, perched as it were on the eastern end of the ridge, are collectively called Kafir Kot, and appellation which, I believe, may signify either the "infidel's abode" or an "inaccessible place." I am instructed to state that the boundaries have not been reached. One of the mound on the western end of the ridge assumes a form not dissimilar to that of a well developed woman. This resemblance appears to have occasioned the recognition in a legend, which attributes the peculiar formation to a forsaken maiden, whose prayer to be turned to stone was granted. The heads of two streams, the Changos and Jangana, rise on the northern boundary of the tract of country, the subject of this report. The eastern and western boundaries are the Changos and Kurram rivers, and the southern a range of hills, known as the Hurs. The Kurram, Goumati, Barganatu, and Changos. The two streams, the Changos and Jangana, flow some distance in opposite directions. The Changos, after proceeding eastwards for about two miles, suddenly bends to the south, and finally joins the Kurram after a range of hills, finally joining the Kurram six miles south of Bannu. The Jangana runs parallel to the Kafir Kot range of hills until it empties itself into the Kurram. A number of streams and passes leading into the heart of this tract of country I was careful to notice that there were no obstacles calculated to interfere with the progress of wheeled carriages. Throughout the area of 350 square miles I noticed only four villages containing permanent dwellings. They were Goumati, Sapari, Shamnan, and Garang ; and I estimate there

The annual net profits of the Company will be divided as follows :—

1.—In payment of Interest on the Paid-up Capital at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum to be a first charge on the profits until such time as the Reserve Fund has reached £62,500 (or Taels 250,000), after which the Interest to be increased to 12 per cent.
